PUBLIC LIBRARY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON

The publication of this Index was begun in the Bulletin of the Boston Public Library dated April, 1883, and has been issued by instalments in successive numbers of that publication. The Appendix, here published in a second alphabet, embraces titles of articles in publications received too late for insertion in their proper order in the Bulletin. The Index is intended to serve as a guide to historical and descriptive sketches, which relate to localities, contained in historical publications, including periodicals devoted to history, official publications (like the Pennsylvania Archives), collections and proceedings of historical societies, and in State and county histories. Of these last only those are taken where a town, city, or state receives independent treatment. As no work of the exact nature of the present Index exists, it is thought that it will prove a serviceable work of reference. Perkins's Check list of American local history gives in the briefest form titles only of independent works. These are not included in this Index. A catalogue of such local histories, combined with the titles of the articles here enumerated, arranged on the plan of Anderson's "Book of British Topography," would be a most desirable publication. To prepare such a catalogue has been a cherished hope of the compiler, but the pressure of other duties precludes the probability of its early realization.

List of works indexed additional to those given in pp. 3-9, including continuations of some of the publications contained in the list there given. Those marked with a star are continuations.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Index of Articles upon American Local History,

IN HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS IN THE BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

It was primarily intended to index for this list only serial historical publications. In accordance with a later decision, many state and county histories, in which the town or county histories are separately treated, are included. Drake's Middlesex County, and Egle's History of Pennsylvania, are prominent examples of this class of publications. The local histories are there written by specialists.

New Hampshire grants.

The New Hampshire grants, so called, comprised townships mainly situated in the territory now the State of Vermont, granted by the governor of the province of New Hampshire to settlers from Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The towns on the east side of the Connecticut finally became incorporated with New Hampshire, while the others organized an independent government, which was maintained against the claims of New York, and became, in 1791, the State of Vermont.
